

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A multi use circuit module has a front half module. The front half module is a functional circuit module having electrical contacts on a front portion thereof for electrically coupling the multi use circuit module to a host device. A rear half module is removably coupled to the front half module. The rear half module increases functionality of the multi use circuit module by allowing functional and non functional components to be coupled to the front half module.